Favored Home Industry.

A Cleveland bookseller tells the following amusing story of a conversation he held recently with a well-to-do but illiterate client. "I must have some books," the latter remarked, and went on to explain that he had found an empty library in a house which he had purchased in Kensington. His only condition was that the volumes should be handsome. The bookseller suggested that half of them should be bound in Russia and half in Morocco. "What on earth is to hinder you from having the lot bound in Cleveland?" was the unexpected response.—Driftwood.

Styles in Bogota.

In Venezuela everybody that is anybody has been in Paris and speaks French, while here (Bogota), one hears very little about Paris, although it is evident that the ladies patronize Parisian dressmakers. Their dresses, coming by parcels post, are somewhat creased in the mail, but it is the fashion to allow the creases to remain as silent witnesses of the foreign origin of the garments.
